Director's Notes

Stories create culture. Each generation decides what myths, fairy tales, and characters are worth preserving, weaving a culture for the generations to come after them. Stories can tell the history of a people, and they can also write over the true history. Destructive people can be made heroic, and victims made villainous. Stories are what we have left when we lose the ones we love. And in the midst of epic moments in history, like plagues, or reckonings about systemic oppression, we use stories of the past and tellers of the present to bring us together, to help us know where to go next.

In THIS REMAINS, we are coming back together to tell stories at UMBC, live and in each others' physical presence, for the first time in two years. The journey you are going on tonight is a communal creation of a new generation of storytellers, ready to guide you through the liminal space between the living and the dead, where you will see and hear characters and stories that they believe are important to weave into the culture of the future. Keep your wits about you. Heed the warnings. Hear the calls to action. Speak to those who ask things of you. Pass on what remains with you.

(And make sure you leave with as much stuff as you came with...what gets lost in the liminal space remains forever.)

DEPARTMENT OF THEATRE

UMBC DEPARTMENT OF THEATRE At UMBC we believe that theatre is an ever-changing art form, responding to and creating new ideas that confront our ethical, political, and artistic ideas and practices. Degree programs leading to an Acting BFA; a Theatre BA - Theatre Studies Concentration, or a Theatre BA - Design & Production Concentration provide students with the interdisciplinary skills to become actively engaged with their art and with the world around them. A dedicated faculty focuses on each student's evolution as an artist and as a person, making the study of theatre at UMBC a life-changing experience that stimulates, challenges, and inspires.
